

Worker's Compensation Law

Insurance agents, agencies, or their clients often have questions regarding worker's compensation insurance and contact the Department of Insurance to request assistance. Because the North Carolina Industrial Commission is solely charged with administration of the Workers' Compensation Act, that agency is the proper agency to provide guidance to insurance agents, carriers, and others in matters under the Workers' Compensation Act. The North Carolina Industrial Commission created the Workers' Compensation Information Specialists Section to answer questions pertaining to all aspects of workers' compensation.
